Syllabus

Add on course on "Technology in the Modern World: Application of GPS Technology in the Modern World: Application of GPS" offered by the Department of Geography, TPMM

Module 1: Introduction to GPS

Definition and Basic Concepts
Historical Development
Importance and Evolution of GPS Technology

Module 2: GPS Fundamentals

Components of GPS
GPS Satellite Constellation
Trilateration Principle

Module 3: GPS Signal Processing

Signal Transmission and Reception
Signal Acquisition and Tracking
Error Sources and Correction Techniques

Module 4: GPS Accuracy and Precision

Factors Affecting GPS Accuracy
Differential GPS (DGPS)
Real-time Kinematic (RTK) GPS

Module 5: Applications in Navigation

Automotive Navigation Systems
Aviation Navigation
Maritime Navigation

Module 6: Applications in Mapping and Surveying

Land Surveying
Construction and Engineering Applications
Geospatial Data Collection and Mapping

Module 7: Location-Based Services (LBS)

Geotagging and Social Media
Emergency Response and Public Safety
Fleet Management and Logistics

Module 8: GPS in Agriculture

Precision Agriculture Techniques
Crop Monitoring and Management
Integration with Farm Machinery

Module 9: GPS in Environmental Monitoring

Wildlife Tracking and Conservation
Natural Resource Management
Disaster Response and Recovery

Module 10: GPS in Telecommunications

Timing and Synchronization in Telecommunications Networks
Satellite Communications
Mobile Network Optimization

Module 11: Security and Privacy Concerns

Vulnerabilities to Spoofing and Jamming
Privacy Implications of Location Tracking
Countermeasures and Best Practices

Module 12: Future Trends and Innovations

Augmented Reality Integration
Multi-constellation GNSS
Emerging Applications in Smart Cities

Module 13: Case Studies and Practical Examples

Case Studies in Disaster Management
Implementation Examples in Urban Planning
Industry-specific Applications and Success Stories

Module 14: Hands on training of GPS

Module 15: Conclusion and Future Outlook

Recap of Key Concepts
Implications for Society and Industry
Future Directions and Opportunities for Innovation

Note: Every course must be finished in two hours. The course consists of one hour of lectures with a fifteen-minute tea break in between.

Course Report

Course Patron: Dr. Sati Singh, Teacher in Charge
Course Coordinator: Saddam Hossain, Guest Teacher, Department of Geography
Course Duration: 06.09.2019 to 12.09.2019 (6 Days)
Course Hours: 30 hours Course
Time: 11 am to 5 pm
Number of participated Students: 281

Course Objectives: The " Technology in the Modern World: Application of GPS " course, organized by the Department of Geography at Thakur Panchanan Mahila Mahavidyalaya, aims to provide students with a comprehensive understanding of GPS. The course "Technology in the Modern World: Application of GPS" aims to provide a comprehensive understanding of GPS technology, covering its fundamental principles, history, and key components. Participants will explore the wide-ranging applications of GPS in sectors such as transportation, agriculture, emergency response, and personal use, highlighting its transformative impact on modern life. The course will also delve into recent technological advancements in GPS and their future implications, while addressing challenges like signal interference and security threats. Through practical exercises and real-world examples, participants will develop the skills needed to effectively implement GPS technology in various professional and personal contexts.

Course Achievement: The " Technology in the Modern World: Application of GPS " course, offered by the Department of Geography at Thakur Panchanan Mahila Mahavidyalaya, has achieved significant milestones in enhancing students' understanding GPS potential. Upon completing the "Technology in the Modern World: Application of GPS" course, participants will have achieved a thorough understanding of GPS technology, including its principles, history, and operational mechanisms. They will be well-versed in the diverse applications of GPS across multiple sectors and will understand the latest technological advancements and future trends. Participants will have gained practical skills for implementing GPS solutions in real-world scenarios, enhancing efficiency and problem-solving capabilities. Additionally, they will be equipped to identify and address challenges related to GPS, such as signal interference and security concerns, making them proficient in leveraging GPS technology both professionally and personally.
